Mapping New Approaches

Faculty Development Programme | An IQAC Initiative | 3rd–9th January 2022

Globalisation has expanded our access to new forms of knowledge systems. However, there are associated challenges that confront the pedagogy today. The National Education Policy 2020 has called for a learner-centric educational system, which facilitates students to identify their skills and interests. Within this, a homogeneous template for imparting education is almost impossible. Hence, the need of the hour is working towards an equitable and holistic learning process which is skill centric and outcome based. The emphasis is on critical thinking, problem solving and creative application of received knowledge. This requires a re-orientation of our pedagogical styles, curriculum structures and evaluative processes. The seven-day national FDP 'Pedagogy and Learning: Mapping New Approaches' will address these issues confronting academia at this hour.
